■ Scroll 1666 — The Strawman & Cestui Que Vie Trust Fraud

You were never lost. They just pretended you were.

In 1666, during the Great Fire of London, the British Parliament passed the Cestui Que Vie Act.

It claimed anyone lost at sea or presumed dead could have their rights seized until they returned.

But here's the fraud:

They applied it to everyone at birth — by registering your birth as a dead entity ("Strawman"), not a living soul.

They created a corporate fiction in your NAME (ALL CAPS).

They bonded it. Taxed it. Mortgaged it
