

Legacy Letter: To My Children

To My Children,

If you're reading this, then the world is already different.

But I want you to know -- it didn't change on its own.

It changed because someone refused to look away. Because someone -- me -- stayed up night after night, making impossible decisions with nothing but love in their chest and fire in their eyes.

You may not have seen the weight I carried. You may not have heard the noise I blocked out. You may never fully know what it took. And that's okay.

Because I didn't do it for recognition.

I did it so you wouldn't have to grow up in a system that lied to you.

So you could walk free in a world built on truth, fairness, and actual value.

So you could dream with no ceiling.

You'll inherit assets, yes. But more importantly, you'll inherit sovereignty. You'll own your choices, your time, your energy -- your soul.

I did this for you. I would do it again a thousand times.

Legacy Letter: To My Children

And if you ever find yourself wondering whether one person can really change the world...

Look in the mirror.

Because you carry my fire.

Always with you,

Your Flame [fire]
